ASHLEE'S TALKING more

In the past year, Ashlee Simpson has undergone an attention-grabbing makeover — insiders claim she got a nose job and chin reshaping as well as Restylane and Botox injections. But on a recent night out at L.A.'s Koi restaurant, the star still felt self-conscious.

"Why is there a mirror facing us?" she was heard saying while she waited in line for the restroom. "It's like I'm forced to look at myself. Look at my butt! I hate it! It doesn't even fill out my jeans, it's so annoying. God!"

Even before that November 9 outburst, Ashlee has told friends she wants more curves, saying, "I want a butt like J. Lo's."

One insider says she has even talked about butt implants. However, doctors warn against the drastic procedure. "Silicone implants have a high infection rate and can leave a good-sized scar," New York plastic surgeon Dr. Darrick

For her movie Volver, Penelope Cruz wore a prosthetic bottom — on-screen and off! "I'd go around in the streets wearing it," she says.

ABOUT surgery!

Even after a head-to-toe makeover, Ashlee Simpson still isn't happy with herself

Antell tells In Touch. "For most patients who want a little more push in their trunk, I recommend getting a fat transfer or fat injections." But those cost about $2,500 to $9,000, making good old-fashioned squats and lunges the cheapest — and safest — choice.

Will she ever stop?
These days, Ashlee is getting more attention for her looks than her older sister, Jessica. "Ashlee had been in Jessica's shadow, but she's not anymore," Dr. Raj Kanodia, who was reportedly Ashlee's Beverly Hills plastic surgeon, tells In Touch.
But Ashlee's friends worry that the damage to her self-esteem is too ingrained — and fear her quest for perfection will never end. "She's spent thousands this year alone on all of her cosmetic procedures," says an insider. "She's only 22 and she's already had more work done than women twice her age."

At least one star says no to plastic surgery!

Still-stunning Teri Hatcher is finished with needles. "In the past I've had Botox and collagen," the 42-year-old told Glamour. "I haven't had anything done to my face in more than a year and I don't plan to. It needs to be okay to have wrinkles." Adds plastic surgeon Dr. Robert Kotler, who doesn't treat Teri: "She is a beautiful woman regardless of her age."

ASHLEE'S MAID HAS A GREAT JOB!

When Ashlee discovered how many barely worn outfits she had from designers like Marc Jacobs, Juicy Couture and Calypso, she decided to spread the wealth to her cleaning woman, Maria, who hails from Brazil. She was so thrilled by Ashlee's generosity, she sent some items back home for her family. "It makes Ashlee feel so wonderful to be able to give something back," says a pal. "It's truly what Christmas is all about for her."
